

Recent Activities of the National Children's Study
Interagency Coordinating Committee (ICC)
01/20/11

The summary was kindly provided by Dr. Sheila Newton of NIEHS, Chair of the National Children's Study ICC.

- The ICC continues to share updates from their member agencies on specific agency and Administration activities related to children's environmental health.
 - Example: Interactions with the National Children's Study and the Children's Environmental Task Force
- The ICC discussed sharing opportunities to promote and publicize the Study in the scientific community, at conferences, workshops, and other venues.
- The ICC discussed organizing meetings and recruiting scientific input from member agencies.
- Recent discussions on other related National Children's Study topics include:
 - Disseminating preventive health information to potential Study participants and/or their communities, including reasons for and against disseminating information, and what information to include
 - Strategic approaches for identifying combinations of co-occurring chemicals.